FIFTH SUNDAY OF LENT

NOT BY HAND

In recent days I have noticed these daffodils in the field beside my house. They are in a straight row and look as if they were carefully planned and planted. Neither is the reality for I don't know how they came to be in this place but I am happy they have come to stay a while. There is a true beauty in the daffodil and it cannot fail to raise the spirits. No wonder it has become the symbol of fundraising for the Cancer Society - a sign of hope.

The Gospel this weekend speaks of the need for a seed to die so that it may bring new life, for by itself it is just a single seed. It is when it dies and scatters that more can be achieved.

The Lord was speaking of life, speaking especially of his own life, that like the seed, he would have to die so that more and fuller life could be lived.

Let the daffodils grow where they will. Let life be lived to the full. We are all part of this story .....

Planned though, and planted.

Please be part of it because you are part of it.
