31st Sunday in Ordinary Time

3rd November 2024

Message for the Bereaved during November

You never really get over the loss of your loved one. They live forever in your broken heart. Grief is something that walks beside you every day and every night.

Grief comes in waves – when you are driving alone in your car, while you're doing the dishes, while you're getting ready for work – all of a sudden it hits you – your breath catches, tears flow and the sadness can be so great that it is physically painful.

You can feel alone.

Grief causes a wound, sometimes a very deep wound; our heart is not just wounded; it is broken. Like all wounds it hurts. But this is a wound we need not be ashamed of; in fact, it is a wound we should be proud of because it is caused by love.

Where there is love there is also grief and pain. Those who have never loved will never experience grief.
